

Professor Berkeley Hill

Professor Hill was appointed as a Foundation Governor when the present school was formed in 2006 by merging the former Infants and Junior Schools. For 35 years he lectured in economics and policy analysis at Wye College and Imperial College (University of London). He remains an Emeritus Professor at the latter and now advises the government and international organisations on agricultural policy and rural development. He is also Director of Music at St Leonard's Church, Hythe, running its separate choirs of boys and girls. Berkeley lives in Saltwood parish and he and his wife Hilarie have three children and seven grand-children, all of whom live locally.
