

Vic Casambros

I moved back to Folkestone in 2018 to start a family and now have a lovely little 6 month old daughter. I grew up in Folkestone but left to go to University then worked in London for a few years after graduating.

I currently work as Social Media Manager for ANNA Money, a new FinTech company providing business current accounts, tax support and invoice management for freelancers and small businesses. I've got a decade of experience working in Marketing & Communications and Stakeholder Engagement in various charities and the civil service.

I applied to Hythe Bay as I felt I wanted to give back to the local community, even more so now that I have a child and it won't be long till I'm deciding which school to send her too. In the past I've been a charity trustee and chaired their finance and risk subcommittees.

I was also recently elected as Club Secretary of the Dover Amateur Radio Club, a local non-profit club where I've taken on management of their governance, membership services and website work.
